NC-4 FORCED TO DESCEND TO SEA OBSERVED ABROAD NORTH OF LISBON GRAVES MARKED

Commander Read Says Plane Can't Make Plymouth Tonight.

PLANE IS UNDAMAGED BY DESCENT READ REPORTS

Naval Aviators Started From Lisbon Early This Morning.

London, May 30.—The following message has been received by wireless from the NC-4.

"Landed Mondego river."

The mouth of the Mondego is near Figueira, about 100-miles north of Lisbon on the Portuguese coast.

Commander Read of the NC-4 sent a further message stating that he could not make Plymouth tonight.

The seaplane was not damaged when she landed.

The wireless message from Lieutenant Commander Read did not give any reason why the NC-4 landed. It said, however, that he must await high tide. He asked the authorities at what port he should land.

Brest, May 30.—The following message from the NC-4 has been received:

"NC-4 at Mondego river; must wait high tide. Seaplane cannot make Plymouth. Request destroyers to keep stations. What is best port to land seaplane within 300-miles."

The message was signed by Lieutenant Commander Read. It was not timed. It was picked up at 12:30 p.m. by the United States auxiliary bridgeport in Brest harbor. The message was addressed to the commander of division II, U. S. destroyer forces.

Brest, May 30.—The following message from the NC-4 has been received:

"NC-4 at Mondego river; must wait high tide. Seaplane cannot make Plymouth. Request destroyers to keep stations. What is best port to land seaplane within 300-miles."

The NC-4 is expected to arrive here at about 4 o'clock this afternoon, British summer time.

News that the NC-4 had started on her flight from Lisbon to Plymouth created much excitement here. Hours before the plane was expected to arrive, large crowds gathered on the bluffs overlooking the harbor. Weather conditions are favorable with a light breeze. The United States destroyer Rochester is due to arrive here about noon.

The seaplane NC-4, sole survivor of three great machines which left Rockaway Point, N. Y., on May 8, on the epochal air voyage across the Atlantic, reached Lisbon at 8:02 o'clock, Greenwich time, on the evening of Tuesday, May 27, after a wonderful flight from Ponta Delgada, Azores. The first day following her arrival at the Portuguese port was spent in inspecting the craft and it was expected that the machine would start for Plymouth on May 29, but adverse weather conditions made a postponement of her flight advisable.

When the NC-4 reached Lisbon she had travelled since leaving Rockaway Point, a distance of 5,150 sea miles, having been in the air 42 hours and 33 minutes. Her average speed had been 72 sea miles per hour for the whole trip, although her speed from Teneriffe, N. E., to Horta, Azores, and from Ponta Delgada to Lisbon averaged far above that figure. From Lisbon to Plymouth is approximately 775 miles.

Brest, May 30.—When the U. S. seaplane NC-4 left Lisbon this morning the weather was cloudy. There was a barometric depression over the Bay of Biscay, but the weather was clear over the English channel, with a light south-easterly breeze.

The NC-4 passed station A at 8 o'clock this morning and station B at 2:30 o'clock. She was flying at an altitude of about 2,900 feet in calm, beautiful flying weather. She is expected to make an emergency landing on the westernmost of the islands off the coast of Portugal at 11:30 o'clock.

Nothing further has been heard by the naval authorities at Paris or Brest from the NC-4 since she commenced with station C at 8:20 o'clock. An intercept message by the naval authorities here is the only thing that the NC-4 does not trouble her after receiving and resuming her flight.

The message read: "Manned stations NC-4 on her way."

Cleveland, May 30.—The test case of Charles Letkowitz, saloonist, to determine how far the liquor laws can be enforced came up in police court today. Letkowitz, who is charged with keeping his saloon open Tuesday, filed a demurrer through his attorney to an affidavit charging him with violating the liquor law on the grounds there was no law under which he could be tried. Judge Howley overruled the demurrer and the saloonist demanded a jury trial which will be held June 2.

Have not sighted NC-4. Am searching southward of station B."

A message received here advised from the torpedoed destroyer Wrensey, at station C on the route of the NC-4, is interpreted by the naval authorities here as meaning that the NC-4 does not trouble her after receiving and resuming her flight.

The message read: "Manned stations NC-4 on her way."

Washington, May 30.—The news department was officially advised of the departure of the seaplane NC-4 from Lisbon for Plymouth at 5 o'clock this morning in a brief message from Admiral Cummings at Lisbon. The starting time was given as 2:24 Greenwich time (12:30 a.m. Washington time). Slow

Washington, May 30.—With deepened solemnity the first Memorial day after the close of the great world conflict was observed in the national capital today the nation's heroes of earlier wars sharing its tribute with those who fell in the struggle to maintain the liberties and ideals for which their forefathers fought.

Memorial exercises were held at the United States soldiers' home, and at other points under the auspices of the G. A. R., United Spanish War Veterans, and allied organizations, which participated in the annual parade earlier in the day. A special committee, including the tomb of the unknown dead, at Arlington, as a tribute to American soldiers who fell in France, and special exercises also were held at the mast of the U. S. Marine at Arlington.

President Marshall was the speaker at exercises at battle-ground national cemetery, conducted under the auspices of the G. A. R., and Representative Campbell of Kansas spoke at the soldiers' home exercises.

With the session not in session, many of the houses devoted the day to paying tributes to those who served or gave others to the service of the country in the great war."

Many were the expressions of gratitude solemnly pronounced by representatives during consideration of a resolution honoring the remains of heroes of the new patriots.

LOVING HANDS WILL HONOR OUR HERO DEAD IN FRANCE

American women at American women's hospital at Luzancy, France, decorating graves of U. S. boys.

The thoughts of thousands of Americans on Memorial Day will be far across the sea where the boys who gave their all for world freedom are lying. But there is no need to feel that the memory of these heroes will not be honored. American organizations still doing reconstruction work in France and scores of French organizations have laid plans to decorate the American graves to show again their appreciation, not only for the sacrifice these boys have made, but for the sacrifices the mothers, fathers, wives and sweethearts of the heroes made. This photo, recently received, shows how the graves have been kept up and are decorated frequently.

BOY SCOUT FUND PASSES $12,000 MARK WITH THURSDAY'S REPORTS

Workers Suspend Efforts Friday Because of Holiday—Not a Single Refusal Is Met By Solicitors For This Worthy Cause.

The Boy Scout campaign is progressing nicely. As this is a holiday several of the solicitors did not go to work this morning and no reports were submitted later than Thursday afternoon, but the subscription cards now in hand show conclusively that the goal will be reached.

Some have increased their subscriptions made early in the week and as yet some of the most liberal givers in town have not been solicited. Only a few men have been engaged in the work and they have not had time to make a complete canvass. The boy scouts' response given by the public and the rapid growth of the subscriptions indicate very clearly that the appeal has struck a popular chord. Several of the solicitors report that in their three-day campaign they have not met with a single refusal.

The subscriptions passed the $12,000 mark yesterday and the total is therefore within a few thousand dollars of the goal. As many who have not been seen will want to have a hand in this good work it is suggested that they telephone to Chairman S. E. Allan, or to the chairman of the finance committee, H. F. Darrow, and pledge cards will be sent. The subscriptions are for a period of three years the payments being semi-annual.

"The Racing Strain."

"The Racing Strain," a romance of Kentucky and Saratoga, was written expressly to suit the peculiar talents of the vivacious star, Mae Marsh, by Tex Charwate, author of Gertrude Farrah's first Goldwyn production, "The Turn of the Wheel," and of "People Get Grief" and "A Perfect 36." Mabel Normand's recent comedy triumphs.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic have complained for many years that the exercises of the National Memorial Day did not attract the attention that they ought to. While they were upholding the lessons of patriotism in poorly attended meetings, the crowds were going to the ball games. Men who had placed their lives at the service of their country felt this apparent neglect very keenly.

Yet these veterans in an unostentatious way have been conducting a patriotic work that has had profound results. As they spoke to the children in their schools, as they delivered their fervent speeches at camp fires and encampments, they emphasized a certain ideal. The men who served in the Confederate forces expressed the same conviction.

The two great and grey bearded armies stood for his idea, that a man who has respect for himself must cheerfully give up the security and the peace of his home when the call of duty and patriotism comes, and must be prepared to defend his principles to the death if needs be.

Fifty years of peace followed the terrific onslaughts of '61-'65. The little Spanish war seems today but a slight interruption. Many people thought that the spirit of '61 had died out of the American heart. But all through these years the veterans of the Civil war on both sides of the old line of division had been showing good. They communicated their conviction to a new generation. When the call came, that generation rose and acted with the spirit that had been handed on to them.

The two great and grey bearded armies stood for his idea, that a man who has respect for himself must cheerfully give up the security and the peace of his home when the call of duty and patriotism comes, and must be prepared to defend his principles to the death if needs be.

The Germans are weeping and howling over the peace terms because they can't enforce ten times more severe requirements of the allied peoples.

A distinct movement upward of superheated atmosphere is reported from Washington soon as Congress goes in session again.

There are two theories of the way the Germans should be dealt with. One is that they should be approached in a conciliatory spirit, with the desire to heal the wounds of war.

This assumes that the Germans were so lied to that they actually believed they were fighting to defend themselves from attack. So it would forget the past and trust that now that they are freed of their wicked autocracy, they would never again take up arms to invade another country.

If a soft peace were made with them, the Germans for the time being would work more in harmony with the rest of the world. They have had all the fighting they want for a little while. The chances that they would make war within 10 or 20 years are not great.

The trouble with that theory is that it so ignores the handing out of justice. With the most diabolical still, the Germans ruined Belgium and the richest mining and manufacturing district of France. In the most careful and methodical manner, they proceeded to destroy all industries that those great producing communities will be at most helpless for five or ten years. Meanwhile the German productive equipment is untouched. As quick as the people get tired of loafing, their industries will be running as efficiently as ever, with a tremendous advantage over stricken France and Belgium.

No, a stable peace can't be built by a relaxation of justice. A constant stream of German gold, coal, and all products must flow into France and Belgium for years, before outrages can be atoned for, and the victims recover their balance. It may be uncomfortable to sit on the German's heads for years, but it will be safer.

The House of Representatives, now under Republican control at Washington, did not wait long to pass the bill to take care of war risk insurance claims. But it is deserving of no credit for speedy action in this session. The case was just as urgent last March when a republican filibuster blocked the passage of this and other legislation.

It is considered that when you run a lawn mower at 5 a. m. and wake up all your neighbors, you get a much more prominent reputation for industry, than if you did the job at a more prosaic hour.

Some of the people who are always losing parcel post packages are the same ones who can't afford anything to tie them up with but the weakest kind of cord wound around once.

Many millions of voters who could find time only to read the headlines of the President's message, were yet able to read the baseball scores on the same date very carefully.

The feeling against the red flag is nothing new. Do you remember how Grandmas used to kick when Grandfather would persist in using a red bandana handkerchief?

Some of the Congressmen are not as big men at Washington as in their home districts but anyway the doorkeepers sometimes condescend to speak to them.

In view of the President's message, some people are hopeful that while the summer may be dry, it won't be dusty. This of course doesn't apply to Ohio.

The Germans are weeping and howling over the peace terms because they can't enforce ten times more severe requirements of the allied peoples.

WORK OF NEWARK GIRLS' CLUB IS FEATURED IN WEEKLY CLUB LETTER

A tribute of recognition is paid the young women of the Twentieth Century club of this city, in this week's weekly issue of Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

The Federated letter written by Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, director of press, devotes most of the issue to the work of the Twentieth Century club. The following was furnished by Mrs. H. J. Davis, president of the Newark Federation:

In 1910, at Newark, ten little girls from ten to thirteen years, schoolmates and chums, growing just a little weary of play and games, decided they would follow the example of their elders by organizing a club.

They proceeded to do, and after much discussion, decided the name should be the Twentieth Century club, indicating progress and development. Officers were elected consisting of a president, secretary and treasurer, and club dues were fixed at ten cents a month. Club pins were selected and purchased and they found themselves in full working order with "nothing to do."

Weekly meeting with light refreshments, alternating at the home of each member, did not seem to satisfy them. They decided they wanted to do something worth while, to help in some really useful work, but "what to do" was the great question.

The new City Hospital was being erected, and an appeal had gone forth to the public for the equipment. It was suggested to one of the little that it would be a nice thing for them to equip the babies' ward. The task looked entirely too large for so small a club. It decided, however, "to give a social," and accordingly made the announcement "that upon the spacious lawn of one of the members, ice-cream, cake and punch would be served." To help swell the funds, each little girl gave up her toys, dolls and other playthings, and pooled them in a fishing pond. The evening came and the public responded and much to their surprise, they found that they had cleared $65. This gave them confidence, and they immediately announced to the hospital trustee that the Twentieth Century club would agree to furnish and equip the babies' ward of the new hospital.

A second garden party was given, from which they cleared $105, and by their own efforts raised funds to purchase the many dainty beds, bassinets, chests, baby-weight scale, and every necessity for baby's comfort, or that would gladden the heart of a fond mother. In 1917 they organized a "Hospital Tag" day, which was duly advertised through the newspaper, and when the day arrived from many homes small gifts at night. "Buy a Tag, please for the benefit of the hospital," was heard on every prominent corner. Their plea was responded to by the public, and the evening showed $120 as a result of their day's labor. Their surplus fund that year was used to redecorate and help furnish the nurses' home.

In 1918, "Hospital Tag" day showed has now become an annual event on the Saturday before Easter netted $670. The surplus that year went to equip a domestic science department for the nurses' training school.

In 1919, "Hospital Tag" day showed $170 as a result of their efforts. The surplus for the year, after caring for the babies' ward, was spent in laboratory equipment for the hospital.

In addition to their hospital work, members of the Twentieth Century club have been no small factor in war work, and a call from the needy is assured of help, if the Twentieth Century club is behind it. They have been entertained many times by members of the ladies' board of managers and hospital trustees, and with outings at Buckeye lake and house parties; they have had one round of pleasure, and the satisfaction of knowing they have aided in a good cause and in the civic welfare of their home town. The real lesson they have learned is that it is better to give than to get; better to serve than be served, and that the real joy of life is in helping others.

The charter members of the club are now young ladies and will this June complete their high school work and leave for college. In order that the work of the Twentieth Century club may go on, they are now selecting and training their successors to assure the future success of the work. The members of the Twentieth Century club are Mary Windle, president; Helen Norpell, Elizabeth Kibler, Laura Beggs, Anna Haynes, Marion Montgomery, Margaret Edder, Mildred Simpson, Kibler, Alice Collier, Dorothy Wilson, Neva Hulshizer and Louis Henderson.

This remarkable report was furnished by Mrs. H. J. Davis, president of the Newark Federation of Women's Clubs.

Norwood Musical Club set a good example for other clubs when it elected at its last meeting delegates to the state convention in Cleveland next fall. So many clubs fail to elect state delegates until the fall club season opens.

The remainder of the weekly club letter follows:

methods of handling the numerous and trying problems that come to her, and her uniform courtesy. According to her official report, this year new clubs were admitted to the state federation.

Belonging to the state federation is like sending your boy or girl away to college, one's mental vision being materially broadened by commingling with so many bright and cultured women from many different parts of the state and country.

Before leaving for the General Federation convention at Asheville this week, Mrs. Rood announced that her appeal for contributions to the war victory campaign was a splendid response.

Those who have not given are asked to give to this worthy cause. Our state president is hoping, too, that the subscriptions for the General Magazine are continuing to go into the New York of-ice. The price of this club woman's national magazine, she says, will be advanced this fall. It was to have advanced sooner, but owing to unsettled conditions of clubs because of the influenza epidemic the management decided to wait, although the cost of paper, printing, etc., has gone up more than fifty per cent. Club women everywhere in Ohio should help to pile up the 6,000 subscriptions to this state's quota for the General Magazine.

Relief Work in Summer.

Authorities say that there are 500,000

destitute in Serbia. The Serbian Relief

Commission of America has taken 40,

000 orphans as its goal to support.

It is estimated that this number can be cared for at a navyage of only twenty cents a day. The need is so urgent that an appeal to club women is made asking them to do all in their power to arouse interest in these stricken people. Can you get your club, your Sunday school or church to adopt a cottage of twenty Serbian orphans?

Please write if you can help or if you have an suggestion. Much of the work is done, but there is yet a lot more to do. Our state president has asked club women to keep on working in every possible way as long as there is necessity for so doing. Serbian relief will be a splendid work for this summer. Write to Mrs. Stella D. Whipple,

No. 70 Fifth avenue, New York.

at the Ohio Sanitarium hospital.

Hal J. Ewald returned this morning

"But you must," the lady persisted. "I am sorry—" began Tosti again, when he suddenly received a violent push backwards, and the lady walked into the studio. Tosti followed, protesting. After a long argument, which threatened every moment to become heated, the lady snapped out: "Very well, then, I shan't sing your song: 'Madam,' " said Tosti, taking her by the hand. "I am infinitely obliged to you." The lady gave him one look and fled.

St. Brice and Football.

In November is the festival of St. Brice, who may be called the patron saint of football players, not alone because his feast day comes during the season of the gridiron game, but for quite another reason. St. Brice's day was long generally observed in England, and in the year 1002 the celebration took the form of a general massacre of the Danes. It was on that day, according to tradition, that the English game of football was invented, with the head of a Dane as the ball. St. Brice, of course, was not responsible for either the massacre or the football game, having died some six centuries before. He was a bishop of Tours and died in the fifth century.

DESOLATE CITY IS NISHAPUR

Home of Writer of the Rubaiyat One of the Most Forbidding Spots on Earth.

The isolated city of Nishapur, in Persia, was the home of the Persian poet known of all his nation to the western world. Omar, surnamed Khayyam, or the Tentmaker, author of the Rubaiyat. The poet is still one of the great historic figures in his ancient city, but he is remembered there not as a poet or a tentmaker but as a sage, philosopher, astronomer and mathematician.

Nishapur lies in a barren upland plain, many days' overland journey from the nearest railroad point. It is encircled by mountains, most of which are low and barren. The northern range, however, rises to a considerable height, and through many months of the year its peaks are white with snow. The lower slopes have a curious reddish tan, due to iron in the earth, so that rare and delicate color combinations are formed at dawn and twilight.

Looking southward from his city, Omar saw a level, featureless plain, depressingly treeless, save for here and there a clump of slender poplars. The winter turned it to a lifeless gray; in the summer, pitiless sunlight and choking dust tormented the eyes. Only for a brief spring season did the fresh green of growing crops, the cool mists that rose after the early rains and the rainbow gleams of pale color from the mountains lend the vista a melancholy charm. Beyond the plain rose another low of low hills, and beyond that he knew, stretched the endless desert. Each year a few weeks of joy and beauty between mountain and desert a few miles of half kindly man-tilled earth—bits of respite that hardly broke the hostile round of nature—it is easier to understand the defiant pessimism of the Rubaiyat after seeing Nishapur. — Chicago Daily News.

GREAT POET'S LIFE UNHAPPY

John Milton, Wonderfully Gifted Intellectually, Was Yet a Man of Many Sorrows.

The great English poet, Milton, is described at the age of sixteen as "scholarly, accomplished, and as handsome a youth as St. Paul's had sent forth." That was at the age when having finished preparatory school, he was ready for the university.

He was born on Broad street, London. His father was a man of education, with a decided talent for music. Milton inherited all his artistic qualities—indeed, the rougher element at college called him "the lady," though all recognized his intellectuality. Even at that period long before he was twenty, he contemplated writing the great "Paradise Lost," which was not finished, it happened, for forty years.

During that long lapse of time Milton had started his reputation by the twin poems, "Il Penseroso" and "L'Allegro;" had married a mere child of seventeen—an unhappy marriage, as it turned out; had written some stirring pamphlets; had almost been killed for opposing the leading politics; had remarried and been left a widower again; had lost his sight; had found the three neglected children of his first marriage not model daughters; had lived in terrible loneliness in spite of his great fame, and had been persuaded to marry a third time, for the sake of being looked after.

He was an old man when the great "Paradise Lost" appeared, which is called "one of the few monumental works of the world," and his death followed some ten years later.

ZANESVILLE MAN HAD A NUMB ARM AND UPSET NERVES

H. L. Martin Tells How Nerv-Worth
Did What Doctors Couldn't Do.

This was a serious case. It looked very bad for that arm. But that was when Mr. Martin banked on the power of Nerv-Worth. Afterwards—but let Mr. Martin tell the story as he did a few days ago to Druggist Zimmer:

Zimmer's Drug Store—I met with an accident some time ago which completely numbed my left arm and left me in a very nervous condition all over. I tried different doctors and could get no relief. They all said I would probably be troubled all my life.

I read where Nerv-Worth had been helping so many people and decided to try it. The first bottle made me feel better, and after taking three bottles THE NUMBNESS WAS ALL GONE from my arm and I felt as good as I ever did. I surely recommend Nerv-Worth to anyone suffering from nervous troubles.

YANKEE SERGEANT WEDS FRENCH FAMILY

ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM

Brest, May 19.—(Correspondent of the Associated Press)—American soldiers who escaped from the embrace of Mars but who fell before the darts of Cupid and married French girls, are permitted by Uncle Sam to bring home their brides at the expense of the government.

Recently there appeared at the troop office a burly sergeant accompanied by a woman bearing a babe in arms. Three other anxious-looking women and another elderly woman. An old gentleman also belonged to the party. They were respectively the wife, baby, sisters-in-law, mother-in-law and father-in-law of the sergeant. He wanted them to return to America with him. "You win," said the desk officer. "You must have been the greatest soldier of them all; you certainly have nerve."
